To whom it may concern

Testimony on the effectiveness of the PTH water softening system

We installed an off the grid system for a client in Fochville, the main aim was to be independent from any services the City Council offers. A large risk as we all know is the water in urban areas.

One of our concerns was that the water was shown to be active and we prepared to drill a borehole but not being able to know the quality of the water, we tried to locate a borehole in the area. We managed to find one but the drilling contractor could not guarantee that the water was from the same sources and we proceeded to drill.

When the water was located and the first water came out you could smell that the water was not to standard. It had a milky colour and smelled of rotten eggs.

A sample was taken and sent for testing where it was determined that there was a high concentrate of sulfur (hydrogen sulphide gas); we were advised that only chemical treatment would resolve our problem and we have come across one of our fears, chemicals and additives .

The water was pumped out for hours at a time hoping it would clear but to no avail.

We pumped the water into a tank adjutated the tank but the quality did not improve.

I came across the PTH system and was advised that the system is a water improver and might resolve our issue.

The risk was taken and we installed the system. Immediately could see a difference in the clarity and the smell was gone!

The system is now running for 6 months and none of the tenants have complained about any issues with the water quality.

We have installed a couple of systems and can recommend PTH as one the we at Hoffcon will recommend to our clients , the hardness of the water is gone, and we are now dealing with extraordinary good quality water.

The cost effectiveness and the ease of installation makes the system a very strong contender in the market.
